1. In Brno, the Technical Faculty (sic) has been transformed into the Army Technical Academy. Professors who signed contracts with the Academy have been given the rank of full colonel. Because few signed the contracts, civilian professors have been teaching in the Academy without military status. The school has about 400 students, all of whom have had to sign a pledge to serve double the amount of time spent in school in the army. This results in an average of nine years of military service. Students are quartered in the old student colony, Kounicova, in Brno-Zabrovresky. They are not allowed to leave their barracks except on Sundays.
